Teach your son to fish

and he'll learn patience.

Teach your son to work hard and he'll learn self-sufficiency.

Teach your son to laugh

and he'll learn it's okay to cry.

Teach your son to reject violence and he'll learn how strong he can truly be.

The only way to remain free
is to speak up against tyranny.

The only way to ensure justice is to speak out against injustice.

The only way to stop violence against women and children is to talk about how wrong it is.

Loudly. Passionately. Consistently.

Well?

Is there something you'd like to say?

If your neighbor was hurting his family would you speak up?

If your brother hit his wife would you step in?

If your best friend was abusing his kids would you confront him?

Or would you just pretend not to notice?

So the question really is what kind of man are you?

Don't just tell him how to throw a baseball.

Show him. Once. Twice.

A hundred times.

Don't just tell him how to read.

Read him a story. Do funny voices.

Show him pictures.

Show him.

Don't just tell him violence towards women is wrong.

Let him see you every day. Set an example.

Be a man who respects women.

Show him.
